From the desk

Welcome to the world of Chimera!

My German colleagues approached me some 18 months ago to see if we could determine through NIS testing if there were some anomalies that would show in some way an immune response that could be consistent with the description of chimera.

Chimera in medicine, relates to a person composed of two genetically distinct types of cells.

Human chimeras were first discovered with the advent of blood typing when it was found that some people had more than one blood type.

Most of them proved to be non-identical twins who shared a blood supply in the uterus.

Those who were not twins are thought to have blood cells from a twin that died early in gestation.

Twin embryos often share a blood supply in the placenta, allowing blood stem cells to pass from one and settle in the bone marrow of the other. About 8% of non-identical twin pairs are chimeras.

Many more people are microchimeras and carry smaller numbers of foreign blood cells that may have passed from mother across the placenta, or persist from a blood transfusion.

IVF is also contributing to the number of human chimeras. To improve success rates, two or more embryos are placed in the uterus so women who have IVF have more twin pregnancies than usual. More twins mean more chimeras.

The electromagnetic field clearly has a scanning potential that is beyond a logical and analytical explanation.

Microchimerism - one NIS protocol from the NEW Module B seminar - making a HUGE IMPACT!

My initial investigations involved assessing cases involving lupus, then moving on to twins, and finally the health status of the mother of the twins.

If the immune system is in any way burdened with sensing any data that is in conflict with, or challenging to the immune system's memory, the body will register this. The immune system's memory involves the memory T-cells that are capable of remembering what has challenged and been remedied by regulated antibody/antigen activity.

It wasn't until this memory was challenged that any sign of cellular disparity became evident to what was being sensed by the electromagnetic field.

This disparity appeared to be relative to the presence of two genetically distinct and separately derived populations of cells, one population (from the mother and transferred placentally) being at a low concentration, in the same individual or gland or bone marrow.

The physical reactions to these corrections have varied from acute to relatively mild.

Distinct improvements to the history of the patient's immune system in general have been very encouraging.

Module B will guide you through it!

2010 Masters & Symposium San Francisco, California, USA

What is happening at this years Masters....

The enteric nervous system can be the gateway to freedom, or the pathway to incarceration. Your GI tract can either serve you well or give you HELL! The choice however, is not always yours to decide!

The last 8 months have been devoted to the "untangling" of the amazing enteric brain in the gut. The untangling prevents the "strangling" that continues to suffocate the health of nations around the world.

- What do you do with the 1-3pints of saliva you make per day?
- What do you do with the 50 tons of food you consume in a lifetime?
- Did you realise that a dysfunctional coronal suture can affect the function of your sigmoid colon, cranial nerve 5, and thyroid?

The intricacies that form this web of wonderment will allow you answers to the many excellent questions that continue to pervade our society. In addition we unveil;

- Left and right brain automatically automated!
- Assessing free hormone imbalance – a wider view
- Capturing the little devil - Mycoplasma
- Rib lesions made easy
- Pain – how do we control it?
- Increasing Joint range tolerances
- Irregular cells made simple
- The post ganglionic signal

NIS has now moved to another level of investigation. Your choice to raise the bar and witness the spectacle of REAL INTEGRATION is available for you at NIS Masters 2010 in San Francisco.

It will be my pleasure to meet with you and share the spoils!

NIS Masters 15th October
NIS Symposium 16th October
NIS Masters 17th October

"Dear Dr Phillips. Just a short note of appreciation for the Symposium. I found it to be well worth the cost, time and mileage.

I felt privileged to be appreciated with such open hearts into a group who's main interest seems to be to find a better way to help patients. And not an ego in sight!

What serendipity to catch up on people and things from so long in the past. The Palm Cove experience has given me the impetus to pursue matters NIS. It is of immense interest to me that Dr Phillips attention seems to be in the direction of the enteric nervous system. I have had thoughts in this direction for some time, although on clinical observations rather than Dr Phillips much deeper neurological analysis. I am impatient for more information and quicker results."

NEW -Gland & Muscle Relationship Chart

Re-designed in 2010 with some new updates, the new design is quick and easy to follow.

75% of the NIS system involves glands so having an easy to use reference tool is essential.

This chart is a helpful memory jogger for NIS practitioners wanting to identify at a glance pulse point locations, & the glands associated with each of these. The chart then shows the primary muscles and their locations.

This chart is also a useful tool to use as a guide when working with a patient—you can show them what you are doing.

Available now in 2 sizes: A2 Wall Size & A4 Travel Size (to put in your NIS folder).

Buy yours today on-line today: www.neurolinkglobal.com.

Refreshing at a Module B - just like watching a movie

Imagine watching a movie for the first time, you are more focused on taking note of the main plotline - waiting to see how it is going to end.

It often isn't until you watch the same movie again that you see the minor details that are a part of the bigger picture.

An NIS seminar is exactly the same.

Remember... it only takes one small inaccuracy with one contact, or one small step missed... and you have missed a whole protocol that could well be affecting your patient.

Refreshing gives you an opportunity to expand on the main `plot' you saw at your very first seminar. You will start to see those `minor details' & the overall story will become clearer.

NIS Academy Update

Membership Levels:

- Academy 1 - Proficient
- Academy 2 - Certified
- Academy 3 - Trainer

Interested in joining the NIS Academy in 2010?

If you have been using NIS for some time & would like to join the NIS Academy all you need to do is sit a Proficiency Assessment in 2010. Assessments are held in conjunction with any Module A or B.

Proficiency Assessment: This assessment assesses a practitioners proficiency using the NIS system. It takes 15 minutes and is designed to be achievable for every practitioner who is using NIS confidently in practice.

Check out the Academy section for more details.

Member Announcement!

Well done to Didler Fouquet, from Queensland Australia, who recently passed his NIS Certification exam to become an Academy 2 Member!

In the NIS program certification represents a very comprehensive level of achievement. We are thrilled!!

CONGRATULATIONS from us here at NeuroLink!

Testimonial: Allergies

I have suffered from allergies all my life. I would typically sneeze immediately after eating something I was allergic to.

In my twenties I started getting severe headaches from foods. In my thirties I figured out what I was allergic to and simply tried to avoid those foods. This is how I have lived for the past 46 years.

But since NIS treatment with you - now I can eat anything I want! In addition to being able to eat anything, my energy level has increased & no sneezing! I have never been able to eat whatever I wanted without the risk of some sort of reaction be it sneezing, congestion, or headache. Now I can!

So, thank you for changing a part of my life that I was sure wasn't changeable. I am telling this story to anyone who will listen in hopes that they will experience this unbelievable change. Thank you again."

Ben Booth, Washington USA

"It is incredible to see the grin this gentleman comes in with, his life is totally different. His wife does not know what to cook anymore. Thanks."

Patient Case Study: Stroke

Patient: 89yr old male

Complaint:

Mar 2008 - Slurring of words, pale, disoriented, with very diminished peripheral circulation.

July 2008 - Patient was found in the dark by a visitor. He had lost track of time and the heater wasn't on despite a bitterly cold day.

Medical Diagnosis:

Mar 2008 - Diagnosed as having suffered a TIA and discharged the next morning.

July 2008 - Diagnosed with Dysphasia. Doctors were convinced that the neurological damage was permanent and had begun the process of finding a nursing home placement.

NIS Treatment Findings:

Mar 2008 - DNA damage to the medulla Oblongata and its cardiac involvement/connection to the left ventricle.

July 2008 - Virus in the Medulla Oblongata

Summary:

Mar 2008 - Immediately after treatment his colour returned & he started to regain mental awareness.

July 2008 - After 5 days patient improved steadily and shocked all the nursing staff. After some rest and recuperation for the next 2 weeks, patient emerged from hospital stronger than he was before the virus.

Six weeks later he regained his driver's license and continues to tell anyone who'll listen that I'm to blame for him still being here!

They remain bemused....

Aging is a conundrum for medicine both in treatment options and perceived recovery possibilities.

As long as the brain can signal to the cell any limitation must statistically diminish.

NIS & Nutritional Support – do they go hand in hand?

By Dr Allan K Phillips D.O.

These days it is difficult to get all the nutrients that we need from food. Why?

In today's world the nutrient value in food is very poor. Pollution and poor care of our environment contribute to this. We would need to eat a lot more than our regular quantities to get all the nutrients we need.

The vitamin and mineral uptake the body requires come from a much wider variety of food than what we eat and/or is available to us. Some of the important nutrients are not even present in most of our diet's.

Therefore effective nutrient support is essential to not only aid in the healing and recovery process, but assist in further promoting and sustaining well-being.

Although the Neurological Integration System (NIS) developed by Neurolink stands alone and is NOT reliant on supplementation I believe with effective nutrient support, we can assist in further promoting & sustaining wellbeing.

I am conscious that you may have already investigated and chosen your nutritional support program. This must be done with care as many products today have compromised on integrity and quality in favour of cost-cutting."

In 31 years of practice, I have drawn my own conclusions about nutrition and would like to share these with you. I have selected the Oxygen Nutrition specialised line of pure botanical formulas to recommend to my patients.

Why? For the simple reason that these powerful formulas represent therapeutic modalities that work!

Formulas that my patients know make a difference.

What makes these products different?

A unique Enzyme Transport System.

Each formula contains a special proprietary enzyme delivery system that enhances metabolic processing.

This means that it works by getting the ingredients to the body quickly, in a recipe that the body can use and not eliminate, so there is no wastage.

I understand how difficult it is for anything to be assimilated completely. Good ingredients within a nutritional supplement are one thing but whether your body is able to use those ingredients is another!

Most supplements and vitamins fast track to the toilet because of their limited ability to breakdown to a point they can be utilised at cellular level. I have seen many scans of whole tablets in the small intestine!!

So how do they work?

Each of these 4 processes MUST take place to ensure that we are able to fully assimilate any nutritional supplements.

At each of these stages thousands of enzyme functions need to take place. Sometimes we are deficient at one, or more of these stages.

Oxygen Nutrition puts these live enzymes into each formula to ensure that we are able to use EVERY capsule EVERY time.

This range of formulas has been 100% endorsed by a board of medical doctors in the USA and is supported by Neurolink because they work well in conjunction with an NIS treatment.
