

The Meridian Pulses

Acupuncture meridians are low resistance pathways for the flow of electricity (Reichmanis et al 1975)
 The same electrical system is found in single cell animals that have no nerves per se. The research on the meridian system has been found to show that the transmission is continuous in the molecular fabric of the body extending into the nucleus and the DNA of the cell.

